About the Conference

The key intention of the present conference “Human Experience and Global Challenges: An Interdisciplinary Approach” is to explore the complex interplay between human experiences and the pressing challenges facing our world today. It also recognizes that understanding and addressing global issues—ranging from climate change and pandemics to migration, technological transformation, and social inequalities—requires insights that cross traditional disciplinary boundaries. It will create a collaborative platform where researchers, policymakers, educators, and innovators can share knowledge, exchange ideas, and develop interdisciplinary solutions that center the human dimension of global challenges. By examining how individuals and communities experience, adapt to, and influence these challenges, the conference seeks to foster approaches that are both human-centered and globally informed.

Aims and objectives

- To explore the Interplay Between Human Experience and Global Challenges
- To promote Interdisciplinary Understanding
- To foster Collaborative Knowledge Exchange
- To develop Human-Centered and Globally Informed Solutions
- To inspire Action and Ethical Engagement

Conference Sub-Themes
